PUBLIC PROGRAMMING SERIES PRESENTS:

Elijah Anderson: The Cosmopolitan Canopy

April 14, 2:30 PM | Paley Library Lecture Hall
Ground Floor | 1210 Polett Walk

Elijah Anderson is the William K. Lanman, Jr. Professor of Sociology at Yale University. He is one of the leading urban ethnographers in the United States and the 2013 recipient of the prestigious Cox-Johnson-Frazier Award of the American Sociological Association. His publications include Code of the Street: Decency, Violence, and the Moral Life of the Inner City (1999), winner of the Komarovsky Award from the Eastern Sociological Society; Streetwise: Race, Class, and Change in an Urban Community (1990), winner of the American Sociological Association's Robert E. Park Award for the best published book in the area of Urban Sociology; and most recently The Cosmopolitan Canopy: Race and Civility in Everyday Life (WW Norton, 2012).

An acclaimed sociologist illuminates the public life of an American city, offering a major reinterpretation of the racial dynamics in America.

Elijah Anderson, called "one of our best urban ethnographers" by the New York Times Book Review, introduces the concept of the "cosmopolitan canopy": the urban islands of civility amid segregated ghettos, suburbs, and ethnic enclaves.

JOIN ANDERSON TO DISCUSS HIS BOOK, THE COSMOPOLITAN CANOPY: RACE AND CIVILITY IN EVERYDAY LIFE AND ITS CHAPTER ON THE FOOD-FILLED READING TERMINAL MARKET.

Gather Around the Table: Conversations on the History, Impact and Implications of Food on Our Society

During the 2013–14 academic year, our series will frame critical conversations around the common theme of food. Panels, presentations, lectures and discussions will examine food and food-related projects through aesthetics, the social sciences, resource inequity, public health, media, the culture of critique, communities, planning, design and other topics of importance at our university and in our community.

Visit library.temple.edu/about/programs for a full list of food programming, and more, at the Libraries this spring.

All programs are free and open to the public.
Refreshments provided.
